Field Trip Report: Left-of-the-Fault Big Day
November 3, 2012
Trip Leader: Keith Hansen

Keith led an enthusiastic group of birders on a whirlwind Big Day at Point Reyes. Getting 106 species (give or take) was satisfying, especially since some common species did not make the list. The highlight was when Jude Stalker spotted an unusual sparrow that Keith then identified as Marin's very first Tree Sparrow. This is something all will remember as long as we are birding. Finishing the day was a George Clooney look-alike California Quail, a coyote being chased by cows and then a bobcat. Participants wondered if Keith had staged it, as it was too good to be real.
